Swiss RegTech Start-up Riskifier announces successful completion of a Proof of Concept with the OLYMPIC Banking System.

Riskifier has successfully completed a proof of concept (POC) with ERI's OLYMPIC Banking System, which has been showcased recently during the ERI "After Work Rooftop Event - 360° Innovation" evening in Zurich.

Riskifier embarked on the Proof of Concept with ERI, the provider of the leading banking application - the OLYMPIC Banking System - earlier this year.

Riskifier and ERI have been working on the integration of Riskifier's investor risk profiling solution within the OLYMPIC Banking System through an API.

Riskifier's solution uses a chatbot approach for a user centric experience; it integrates the latest findings of behavioral Finance to help financial institutions turn risk profiling into an engaging experience – especially for digital natives.

The proof of concept shows how Riskifier's solution can streamline investor risk profiling, as well as enable financial institutions to improve their investment decision-making on behalf of their clients by using additional behavioral and social insights.

Riskifier is privileged to have ERI as the first partner to accompany it in its start-up journey and help people take better investment decisions. Riskifier highly values ERI's openness and commitment to innovation and looks forward to an ongoing collaboration.
